NUMBER 44

WILL WED THIS AFTERNOON.

Rev. W. A. Grant and Miss Nora Brown to be Married in Muhlenburg County.

THE COUPLE WILL ATTEND CONFERENCE.

At 6 o'clock to-day in Paradise, Ky., Rev. W. A. Grant, of Cane Valley, will be united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Miss Nora Brown by the Rev. R. F. Hayes, of Owensboro. Miss Brown is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Brown, of Paradise, and is noted for her many Christian graces. Her sweet and sunny disposition has won for her many Christian graces. Her sweet and sunny disposition has won for her many Christian graces. Her sweet and Bro. Grant is indeed to be congratulated on winning the hand of such an accomplished young lady.

the hand of such an accomplished young lady.

Rev. Grant is quite well-known throughout Adair and adjoining counties as a former pupil in the Lindsay-Wilson Training School and as an active and energetic minister of the M. E. Church South. He has at present the Centertown charge. This charge he has filled to the satisfaction of all. He has labored incessantly. Many souls have been saved, Christians have been strengthened, churches have been built and much good has been done under his ministerial work.

After a long illness, Mr. Chas. R. Long, who for many years had been connected with the business affairs of Louisville, and who until recently was President of the City Water Works, died at his late home last Wednesday evening. Mr. Long was twice married, his last wife, who survives him, being Miss Nannie Turner, of Campbellsville.

which they sold groceries. Mr. Wilson will go to Louisville and buy a refrige-rator and all other things necessary for conducting a first-class meat shop.

SHOF FACTORY

I snier, Dunbar & Co., a wholesale t and shoe firm of Nashville, will t a fifty thousand dollar shoe facto-the work to begin at once. It will lish work for over three hundred en, one hundred of the number skilled workmen. The building will be five stories with a capacity of making 2,500 pairs of shoes, per day. The firm of Manier, Dunbar & Co., has been in the shoe business for a number of years, and as jobbers, they are second to none in Nashville. This new departure, manufacturing, is a great enterprise for the South. Mr. J. S. Dunbar, a member of the firm, is a native of Kentucky, having been born and reared on Cumberland river, five miles from Jamestown. His Kentucky friends are glad to learn of his unprecedented success, believing that he justly merits all the good things that come his way.

Mrs. L. C. Hurt, of this place, has accepted the General Agency for the California Perfume Company for Kentucky. It will be her business to travel over the State and establish local agents.

Mrs. L. C. Hurt, of this place, has accepted the General Agency for the California Perfume Company for Kentucky. It will be her business to travel over the State and establish local agents. Mrs. Hurt is a most excellent lady, full of energy, and we predict that she will meet with success. Mr. W. C. Murrell and wife will occupy Mr. Hurt's residence while Mrs. Hurt is traveling, and Mr. Hurt will board with them.

The affair was managed very nicely in order to keep down suspicion. The groom being the County Clerk, issued the license, hooked up his horse and buggy and drove to the home of his affanced, and the couple went driving. While out they stopped at the parsonage and took the vows that make two hearts, beat as one.

The father of the bride did not know of the occurrence until his daughter handed him the license.

Both the groom and bride are highly handed him the license.

Both the groom and bride are highly respected and quite popular throughout Russell county.

The bride has many acquaintances in Columbia, all of whom extend their best wishes.

The groom is a good business man, possessing exemplary habits, and in our judgment will make an ideal husband.

Mr. Lee Sanders, a well known stock dealer, a native of Taylor county, and who had a large acquaintance in Adair county, died in Ashville, N. C., last week. He was a victim of pulmonary trouble. He leaves a wife, who was a Miss Buchanan, and several children, Mrs. Jo Franklin, who was about sixty-five years old, fell dead at her late home near Gradyville, last Tuesday afternoon. Heart trouble is supposed to have been the cause of her demise.

Mrs. Jo Franklin, who was about sixty-five years old, fell dead at her late home near Gradyville, last Tuesday afternoon. Heart trouble is supposed to have been the cause of her demise. Her husband, who was brought to Adair county when he was fourteen years old, from Old Mexico, by Jim Sexton, survives her, and also quite a number of sons and daughters.

At 1:30 in the afternoon every available spot in the large Court-room was taken, and many of the yeomanry were left upon the outside.

The audience was called to order by Attorney L. C. Winfrey, paying a nice compliment to the people of Adair and the distinguished guests. When Mr. Winfrey concluded, Hon. James Garnett, of this place, in a few well-chosen sentences, introduced Governor Beckhamt to the waiting assembly, and for two hours the distinguished Executive spoke to the most attentive audience ever gathered in the Court House. In a few minutes after he opened his address, the crowd upon the outside began clammoring for a speech, and Mr. Laffoon went down and spokefrom the Court-house door.

dress, the crowd upon the outside began clammoring for a speech, and Mr. Laffoon went down and spokefrom the Court-house door.

It was governor Beckham's desire to begin his campaign at Columbia, and in his opening remarks he paid a high compliment to the Democrats of Adair county. He then reviewed his own record as the Executive of the State, comparing his official acts to those of W. O. Bradley; stated that Wilson and Bradley were one in thought, and if people of Kentricky should elect Wilson they could expect another. Bradley and ministration. Refering to the affairs of the State under Republican rule, he showed that the public funds were recklessly spent, and that when Bradley retired from office, he left the State largely in debt. He scored Bradlley for ordering out the militia intimes of peace; his effort and Wilson's effort to defeat Dr. W. G. Hunter for United States Senator after he was the caucus nominee of the Republican Legislature, etc. He spoke of the stand he had taken for Temperance—his favoring the County Unit law, the closing of the saloons in large cities on the Sabbath, and that Wilson was a superb artful dodger of the issue. He showed the condition of affairs at Frankfort under Democratic rule; that Kentucky was to depend the condition of affairs at Frankfort under Democratic rule; that Kentucky as and the defend Mr. Wilson, the Republican candidate in for Governor, to refute his statements. He touched upon all public questions, making one of the most argumentative speeches we ever heard. It was as as he said a heart to heart talk, convincingly spoken. He closed by uriging the voters of Adair county to be at the polls on the 6th, of November and cast the speech will be several interesting the voters of Adair county to be at the polls on the 6th, of November and cast the first work of the condition of the rest of the condition of a flairs at Frankfort under the condition of a flairs at Frankfort under the

It is only fourteen days until the Conference convenes at this place. If you are not ready, get ready. Every body should assist in entertaining the ministers: It should be remembered that we are indebted to the Louisville Conference for the great stride this town has made in the last four years.

A great many people will be in Counting the ministers are two-story bricks of modern architecture, and the handsome interiors, all life with stocks of goods ranging approximately in value from $2,000 to $25,000, show that the merchants are all pretty well on to their jobs. They are certainly as polite a lot of gentlemens as I ever talked with, and the men as I ever talked with, and the same can be truthfully remarked about same can be truthfully remarked about each and every one of their clerks. The residences and yards in and around Columbia are unusually attractive—simply beautiful. From time immemorial, or from the date whereof the memory of man runneth not to the contrary. Columbia has been noted as a town of rare educational facilities. The colleges there have instilled knowledge of a superior nature into many thousands from all over the country."

Rev. C. R. Payne, who returned from West Virginia, last week, has sold five building lots, one to John Sandusky, one to Chas. Sandusky and three to the planing mill company. These lots are sold from the addition recently purchased from Mrs. Mary Garnett and they all front the street leading to the Fair Grounds. Five residences will go up on these lots at once. Rev. Payne will also build, making six dwellings in this part of town to be erected this year.

HORSE STOLEN.

Stolen from my place, 3½ miles N.
E. Liberty, on Hustonville pike, a red roan horse, 11 years old. 1 white hind foot, goes all the gaits. Has been a show horse, and was on the Fair circuit for two years, and wore a number of blue ties. Pleasant disposition—kind for women and children to handle. If tapped on the front legs, will get down on his knees. $50 reward for return of horse and capture and conviction of thief or will give a liberal reward for information of the horse. J. Wart Brown.

A CARD OF THANKS.

Words are inadequate to express my appreciation for the comforts so faithfully administered by neighbors and friends during the sickness and death of my husband. Respectfully,

We understand that the new Baptist School at Campbellsville and the Pres-byterian school, same city, opened with flattering prospects.

It is said that a great many farmers will have to enlarge their corn cribs on account of the abundance of grain raised this year.

A PRAISEWORTHY CONTEST.

Miss Lorena Pile, of This City, Enters the Louisville Herald Contest for a Free Trip to the Exposition.

WINNING THIRD CAPITAL PRIZE.

The friends of Miss Lorena Pile, not only in Columbia and Adair county, but throughout this section of Kentucky, were very much elated last Wednesday afternnoon when the announcement came that she had won 3rd capital prize, a handsome and costly automomobile, far outstripping all other contestants outside of the Louisville districts, her vote being 457,122. Miss Pile is the telephone operator at this place, and her courteous treatment of the patrons of all lines running into the Exchange gave her a wide acquaintance, and her friends were diligent from the time the contest opened. The machine that she is to receive is valued at $750, and it could not have been more worthly beatowed. The winners of the three capital prizes do not get a free trip to the Exposition and Washington, D. C., but they will be given cut rates, and Miss Pile will be with the Herald party on the coming interesting, and what will doubtless prove a very enjoyable trip.

Mr. W. S. Knight, passed through The friends of Miss Lorena Pile.

Mr. W. S. Knight, passed through here a few days ago, en route to the upper counties for the purpose of employing a contractor to build the pike from Jamestown tho the mouth of Greasy Creek. It is our understanding that he failed to find a contractor who could take the work, and he returned home, saying that all necessary tools and machinery would be purchased, and a local force would be employed to build the pike.

The M. and F. High School is now in good order and the increase during the first week seems to be very gratifying to Mr. Darnall. The patronage is altogether local and by thorough work the confidence of the people can be secured in further encouragement. The building has undergone slight repairs and a decided improvement is noted on the inside. the inside.

For about the thirtieth time we ask the residents of Columbia, when they have visitors, to send the names and location to this office. Also when any member of the family is leaving home, notify us. If you have visitors, it is your duty to see that the local papers notice them. It is impossible for us to see all the comers and goers.

Miss Lula Jones, who has been a compositor in this office for several months, tendered her resignation last week and quit the office Saturday. She liked the work, but her services were needed at home. She has been faithful to her duty here and we regretted to see her leave.

JOHN DOUGLAS.

John Douglas was a nice young man, As all young men should be; His parents of him were as proud As parents e'er could be.

He was their only son, you know, And always was so kind; The country through, a better boy, I'm sure you could not find.

His parents too, were well to do, And happy I suppose; John went where e'er he pleased, I think, * And wore the best of clothes.

His every wish was satisfied, He never lacked for aught, And many things for poorer friends John Douglas often bought.

But every story has a turn So here's the saddest part, For John at last became exposed To a black demon's dart.

Alas, one day while gaily dressed And on a street parade, John stepped into the very net The whiskey demon laid.

Yes, here he met the grog shop clerk, Who offered him a drink And thus ensnared poor John before, He had the time to think.

He drank of this, he drank of that, The demon offered more, Until a habit he had formed, That called for more and more.

pocket change soon passed away, His appetite grew strong, His neighbors all began to think That something must be wrong

For John has changed so much of late. His face has grown so red: A warning voice to him should speak
Most everybody said.

But now, Alas! it was too late,
The habit had him chained,
And though he tried quite hard to quit,
A drunkard he remained.

His mother too, soon passed away
'In sorrow, to the grave;
Her last words were; "Gainst licens vote. Poor fallen drunkards save."

As drunkenness always leads to crime, Poor John was sent to jail; His many friends all gathered 'round, But no one went his bail.

In an attempt to save his son The father's fortune went, Without a home he went to roam 'Till God the summons sent,

And he too, joined the mother earth, And left this world of care. But John, poor John, the wayward s Was almost in despair

He now began to realize
What drinking whisky cost.
But mother, father, home and friends
Were now forever lost.

He tried once more to break away, But let him try who can; For every way he tried to go He'd meet the whiskey man.

And every time he'd break the chain To free himself from drink, The whiskey man with glass in hand Would weld the broken link.

The courts stood by, he called for help They only sympathized,
This fiendish work the people had
By llcense legalized.

And thus poor John was forced to go
Down to a drunkard's grave.
Oh, hear his agonizing cries:
"Poor fallen drunkards save."

Can we who fear the hand of God Such things now tolerate? No lets combine and drive the stuff Beyond our native State.

Dirigo, Ky.

PROHIBITION.

From the trend of the editorial in Colyers weekly, one readily sees how the people of the north and east look upon Kentucky as prohibition State. The name Doh she has so long carried is leaving her, and it seems to astound the editor of Colyers Weekly that 97 out of 119 counties in Kentucky are now dry.

"The trend toward stringent restriction of the sale and conby the louder noises of our pursuit of corporations, as a national movement of impressive size and importance. Who that has the old idea of Kentucky will not be surprised to learn that in 94 out of 119 counties of the State no liquor is sold? Quite potent are minor evidences of social pressure against the making and selling of liquor. In the most important of the secret societies in Kentucky, makers of liquor will not be advanced. In Ohio, East Liverpool, with a population of 25,000 53 saloons have gone "dry" an incident whose this is the largest city in the State that has ever voted "no

One of the striking evidences of the spread of anti-saloon zeal is the increased number and importance of local prohibition papers. In Texas 154 counties have abolished the liquor business, and the Georgia Legislature has within a few weeks passed a prohibition statute for the entire State. There are more evidences of more passionate zeal than is expressed in the statutes. In Valdosta, Georgia, women and children stood all day at the polls, converting voter after voter as he was on the point of depositing his ballot. In Hawkinsville, Georgia, "every woman and child in the town was on hand, singing hymns and psalms." Judge Samuel Artman of Boone county, Indiana, rendered a decision to the effect that the saloon is so evil an institution that a State licensing is unconstitutional, urging in his opin- which is bounded as follows: ion that the State can not delegate orphans, break up homes and create misery and crime." significance lies in the fact that Wilson is telling the natives all sorts of stories and ramming untruths down their throats, but a day of reckoning is coming. Democratic speakers will show him and his party up in such a way that they will resent the impudence by turning him and his ticket down good and hard.
